Employee Relations

The demands of the modern workforce challenge Human Resource leaders to rethink the way they serve employees. Organizations need an HR solution that finds efficiencies while improving the employee experience.

Redefining the Employee Journey

eCase HR® Employee Relations (ER) connects the full lifecycle of critical touchpoints in the employee journey. From actions to investigations, the adaptive case management application digitizes paperwork, saves time and improves customer service by making it easy to access information and stay on track.

eCase HR ER allows organizations to:

- Get a big picture view of the employee experience
- Automate critical touchpoints from performance improvement plans, counseling and employee accommodations
- Capture, collaborate and share information
- Enable self-service with digital access points to complete paperwork, submit documentation and send/receive correspondence
- Use dynamic workflows for approvals, reviews and processing
- Generate reports and metrics with in depth reporting tools and dashboards

ER can be quickly configured to meet your agency’s needs from mirroring your processes with dynamic workflows to matching your branding. The application comes with commonly used digital government forms, reports, correspondence and tools to get started faster.

ER can work independently or as part of an integrated suite of applications including Labor Relations, Employee Accommodations, Telework and Workers Compensation.

eCase HR is a full-featured HR framework built with an adaptive case management engine that digitizes and automates essential human resource functions. The suite of applications provide a single, unified solution to managing the employee lifecycle enabling organizations to better align, engage and empower their workforce.

Built on the low-code eCase Platform, the technology puts the power in the hands of HR, not IT. Users can configure changes in the application with an intuitive UI designer – from modifying a workflow to restructuring your process. No custom coding required. This flexibility allows the solution to extend and grow with your organization. As your requirements change, eCase HR changes with it.
